Militants: Marine Still Alive

Iraqi group disputes report American was beheaded

BAGHDAD, IRAQ | An Iraqi militant group said Monday it had not killed a U.S. Marine it was holding captive, despite previous reports of his beheading.

In a statement sent to Al-Jazeera television, a group calling itself "Islamic Response" said it was holding Cpl. Wassef Ali Hassoun, a U.S. Marine of Lebanese heritage, at a safe location that it did not identify. It also claimed Hassoun had promised not to return to the American military.

Hassoun's family has been in seclusion since Saturday, when a militant group calling itself the Ansar al-Sunna Army claimed on a Web site that it had beheaded the 24-year-old Marine, adding it would release video backing up that assertion. On Sunday, a second Web posting on another Internet site said Hassoun was alive.

On June 27, Al-Jazeera broadcast a videotape showing Hassoun blindfolded along with a statement from militants threatening to kill him unless the United States released all Iraqis in "occupation jails." Militants held a curved sword over his head.

Other militant groups have captured and threatened to behead foreign Muslim hostages, creating an uproar among many Muslims, including other militants. All the captured Muslims aside from Hassoun have been released unharmed. NADIA ABOU EL-MAGD (AP)

BRIDE RIDES

To Have and To Hold

An Estonian couple won Finland's seventh wife-carrying world championship on Saturday, winning the "wife's" weight in beer (the pair are not married). Inga Klauson hung upside down over Madis Uusorg's back while clamping his head between her thighs as he ran 830 feet through a pool and over hurdles. Eighteen couples competed in the event, held in the village of Sonkajarvi. The race is allegedly inspired by apocryphal tales of wife-stealing in Finnish villages of centuries past. (EXPRESS)

MEAT PRODUCTS

A Thirst for Wurst

The residents of Campbellsport, Wis., grilled a 48-foot long bratwurst made of 25 pounds of pork Saturday night. The sausage, which the village hopes was the largest in the world, was made by Loehr's Meat Service and paraded through town on a flatbed semitrailer with police escort and a high school marching band. A local welder made a 50-foot long grill for the brat, which was then topped with more than 400 ounces of ketchup and mustard, four gallons of relish and more than a pound of onions, and then devoured. (AP)

All Eyes on Kerry's VP Pick

Reported meeting with Edwards adds to running mate talk

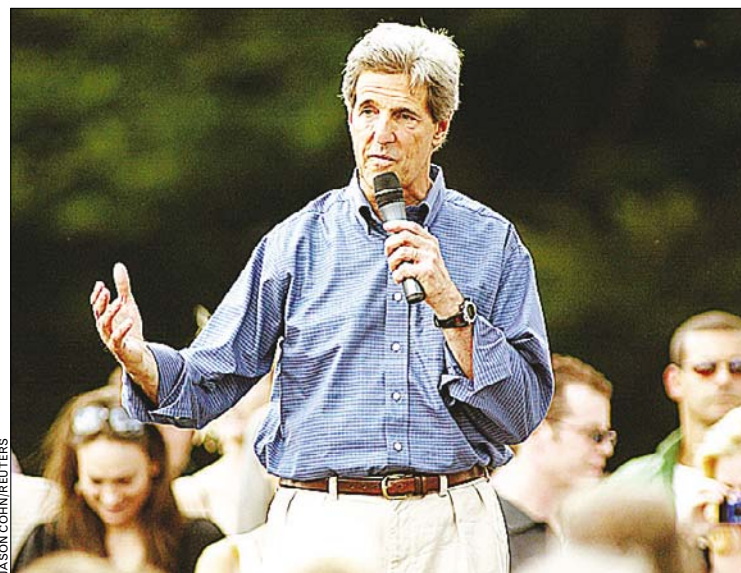

WASHINGTON | Sen. John Edwards interrupted his Walt Disney World vacation last week to meet with Democratic presidential candidate John Kerry, adding a new level of intrigue to the vice presidential search.

Kerry must nominate a vice presidential candidate at the Democratic National Convention, which begins in Boston on July 26.

The Massachusetts senator said Monday he had not settled on a nominee, but that didn't stop the rampant speculation in Democratic circles.

"I've made no decision at this point in time, and I'm going to continue to keep it a private and personal process until I announce it publicly," the senator told WTAE, an ABC affiliate in Pittsburgh.

North Carolina's Edwards outlasted all but Kerry in the Democratic primary fight and is the favorite of many party regulars. Two officials close to the Kerry campaign, speaking on condition of anonymity, said Edwards interrupted a family vacation and flew from Florida to Washington on Thursday to meet secretly with Kerry.

Kerry also has given serious consideration to Rep. Dick Gephardt of Missouri and Gov. Tom Vilsack of Iowa. The senator has not discussed his short or long lists, but that hasn't stopped speculation about a long line of Democrats, including Sen. Bob Graham of Florida, retired Army Gen. Wesley Clark, Sen.

Evan Bayh of Indiana and Sen. Joe Biden of Delaware.

Meanwhile, the National Education Association, the nation's largest union, endorsed Kerry's bid for president on Monday. The 2.7-million member group, composed mainly of teachers, is interested in advancing its agenda on everything from testing students to halting private-school vouchers.

Bush TV Ad May Feature Sen. McCain

FOX CHAPEL, PA. | President Bush's re-election campaign has a television ad in the works featuring former Republican rival John McCain and advisers are weighing whether to air it when Democrat John Kerry announces his vice presidential pick.

McCain, the Arizona senator who rejected Kerry's overtures to be No. 2 on the Democratic ticket, campaigned with Bush in Fort Lewis, Wash., last month. Footage from that appearance is being included in an ad, according to GOP sources, who spoke on condition of anonymity.

Bush campaign spokesman Steve Schmidt would neither confirm nor deny that the ad is being cut. (AP)

Pa. Slots Bill Signed By Rendell

BENSALEM, PA. | Gov. Ed Rendell on Monday signed a bill to legalize slot machines, giving Pennsylvania more of the machines than any state except Nevada, and a second bill that finances $1 billion a year in property-tax reductions.

The companion bills authorize up to 61,000 slot machines at 14 sites. Most of the resulting tax revenue would be used to cut local property taxes by an average 20 percent.

Rendell, a Democrat who had made slots-for-tax-relief the centerpiece of his 2002 election campaign, signed the bills at a ceremony at Philadelphia Park racetrack.

Opponents of the slots bill complained that the bill was crafted in secret by a handful of party leaders and lacks adequate safeguards against corruption and conflicts of interest among members of the state panel that would oversee the slots parlors. PATRICK WALTERS (AP)

Parents Urged to Lead Obesity Fight

Establishing healthy habits as a family could be key to success

INDIANAPOLIS | Susan Hedrick and her 18-year-old daughter are turning the tide on years of fast food and sedentary living. In a bid to shed a combined 180 pounds, they have been eating healthier and taking long walks this summer.

And they are doing it together — something health and diet experts believe is a key to combating the nation's growing obesity epidemic, particularly among kids.

Research suggests healthy-eating, active parents often pass their habits onto their kids, just as sedentary parents do, said Edward Laskowski, co-director of the Sports Medicine Center at the Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minn.

"You've got to say, 'Hey kids, you know we've been doing the wrong thing here. Mom and Dad are wrong too, and we've got to lose some weight,'" he said.

Family bike rides, walks and hikes are some of the suggestions to get everyone burning calories.

Since the early 1970s, the percentage of American children and adolescents defined as overweight has more than doubled, to about 15 percent, according to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention.

And with two-thirds of American adults now overweight, they face an increased risk of diabetes, heart disease and other illnesses. RICK CALLAHAN (AP)

Classic Elvis Track Hits 50-Year Mark

MEMPHIS, TENN. | Elvis Presley's "That's All Right" played simultaneously on radio stations around the world Monday to mark the 50th anniversary of the rock 'n' roll icon's first professional record.

Scotty Moore, Presley's first guitarist, hit a button on a control board at Sun Studio to begin the satellite broadcast to 1,200 to 1,500 stations.

Outside the small studio where Presley cut the record on July 5, 1954, a street party was under way, with bands performing on a sound stage at Sun's front door.

Music historians regard the recording of "That's All Right" as a milestone in American pop culture.

Isaac Hayes, who recorded for Memphis's Stax Records in the 1960s and 1970s, and singer Justin Timberlake, a Memphis native, joined Moore for the ceremony. (AP)

The U.S.-backed "road map" peace plan requires Israel to dismantle outposts established after March 2001. Sneh, a former military governor of the West Bank, said much of the expansion occurred after Israel accepted the road map. (AP)

Officials inspect ballots at a polling station in Jakarta Monday. President Megawati appeared to be battling for second place in the country's first direct presidential vote.

Anticlimax as Indonesians Finally Get to Pick Leader

JAKARTA, INDONESIA | Indonesian voters frustrated by persistent corruption and poverty dealt a harsh blow to President Megawati Sukarnoputri, with a private poll Monday showing a former general pulling ahead to force a run-off in the country's presidential election.

According to the poll by the U.S.-based National Democratic Institute, Susilo Bambang Yudhoyono was ahead with 33.9 percent. Sukarnoputri followed with 24.9 percent and another ex-general, Wiranto, had 23.8 percent. Official results were expected in 10 days.

Since Yudhoyono failed to win 50 percent of votes for an outright victory, a runoff election in September appeared certain. But it was not clear whether Yudhoyono would face Megawati or Wiranto.

The vote took place six years after the ouster of longtime dictator Suharto. The country's first direct presidential vote, it was seen a key step in the transition to democracy in the world's largest Muslim country.

Megawati emerged as a popular politician following the 1998 ouster of Suharto, who had ruled Indonesia since overthrowing Megawati's father, Sukarno, in 1966. She came to power in 2001 after former President Abdurrahman Wahid was forced out of office by parliament. (AP)

Bombs Hit Alleged Militant Safehouse

Iraqi leader says his government provided intelligence on target

BAGHDAD | U.S. forces dropped two tons of bombs on a purported militant safehouse in Fallujah, killing at least 10 people, according to officials, and turning the building into a 30-foot-deep pit of sand and rubble.

The attack was the fifth airstrike in the past two weeks in the area where the U.S. military says Jordanian militant Abu Musab Zarqawi's network has safehouses. Al-Zarqawi, said to be connected to al Qaeda, is believed to be behind a series of coordinated attacks that killed 100 people only days before U.S. forces handed over power to an Iraqi interim government.

Iraqi Prime Minister Iyad Allawi issued an unprecedented statement saying his government provided intelligence to the U.S. military for the strike. Earlier in the day, Iraqi officials canceled a news conference where they had been expected to announce a limited amnesty for insurgents and martial law in parts of the country.

In Fallujah, 30 miles west of Baghdad, rescue workers picked up body parts after the U.S. airstrike, witnesses said. Men gathered at the 30-foot-deep pit where the house had been and pulled out clothes, including a young child's shirt, from the rubble.

"Is this acceptable to the Iraqi government?" asked an angry man at the scene, who declined to identify himself. "Where are human rights?"

The military said it dropped four 500-pound bombs and two 1,000-pound bombs. RAVI NESSMAN (AP)

WHO KNEW? British lawmakers in the House of Lords rejected a ban on spanking by a vote of 250 to 75 on Monday. The current law dates back to 1860, when a judge ruled that physical punishment of children should be allowed as a "reasonable chastisement." Britain is out of step with several European countries where all physical punishment of children is illegal. (AP)

Mexican Leader's Office Roiled After Aide's Resignation

MEXICO CITY | President Vicente Fox's chief of staff resigned on Monday, a stunning announcement that indicated even Fox's most trusted staff have become embittered by his wife's possible campaign to succeed him.

Alfonso Durazo said he objected to first lady Marta Sahagun's presidential ambitions. "The desire for a government to decide who the next president will be or won't be was the original sin of the old regime," Durazo wrote in his resignation letter, referring to the Institutional Revolutionary Party, or PRI, which held Mexico's presidency from 1929 until Fox won in 2000. Under the PRI, the outgoing president named his party's nominee, who invariably went on to win the vote.

"The country has certainly advanced politically, enough that it is ready for a woman to reach the presidency," Durazo said. "Nonetheless, it is not prepared to have the president leave the presidency to his wife."

Sahagun has neither declared her candidacy nor ruled it out. (AP)

Milosevic Defense Delayed

Review prompted by concerns over health of ex-Yugoslav leader

THE HAGUE, NETHERLANDS | Slobodan Milosevic's defense case was postponed Monday for a third time because of his poor health, prompting judges to review whether his trial on charges of war crimes and genocide could go forward.

A medical report read in court said the 62-year-old former Yugoslav president has suffered damage to his heart from the stress of defending himself. Even after a four-month break in hearings, Milosevic's blood pressure was still at dangerously high levels, the report said.

Prosecutors pressed the court to impose defense counsel on Milosevic, who has insisted on representing himself since the trial began in February 2002. But Milosevic angrily rejected such a proposal. "It is out of the question as you know, nor will I ever agree to it," he said.

The trial was to have resumed June 8 after a four-month break at the conclusion of the prosecution's case. Milosevic had been preparing his defense against 66 war crimes counts stemming from the Balkan wars of the 1990s. His chief lawyer, Zdenko Tomanovic, said Milosevic missed 51 days of preparation because of illness and was not ready to conduct his defense.

Steven Kay, an independent lawyer appointed to monitor the fairness of the trial, said the court should consider the possibility that Milosevic may be too ill to stand trial.

"It's been quite clear over the last five months that his health has been gradually declining," Kay told the court. "Two issues are arising at this stage: one is the fitness of the accused to present his defense case at this time and secondly his fitness to stand trial at all."

Experts say the court would have no alternative but to free Milosevic if he is found unfit and the case is halted. ANTHONY DEUTSCH (AP)

Drive-Ins Reverse Course

Bowie, Md., plays host to revival of summer entertainment genre

BOWIE, MD. | When televisions were small and mostly black and white, families flocked to drive-in theaters on summer nights. Now the vanishing entertainment genre is making a rebound with the help of modern technology.

At many drive-ins, the clunky metal speakers that hooked over the car door has been replaced by a stereo soundtrack transmitted to a car radio or boom box. Digital video offers images comparable to high-definition television at modernized facilities.

Randy Loy, co-executive director of the Germantown, Md.-based United Drive-in Theatre Owners Association, estimates that 401 permanent drive-ins are operating this summer, and the slide dating to the 1960s began to reverse itself about 10 years ago.

Local proof comes in Bowie, Md., where Alan J. Akerman — president of American Family Entertainment of Eldersburg — is operating a portable drive-in at Prince George's Stadium.

The stadium is home to the Bowie Baysox, a AA minor league affiliate of the Baltimore Orioles. When the team is on the road, Akerman has an agreement with Comcast-Spectacor to use the lot, which has space for 300 vehicles.

A screen 40-feet wide and 50-feet high is inflated minutes before sunset. Like many drive-ins, the Bowie drive-in offers car-pricing, allowing five or six people to see everything for prices comparable to a pair of general admission seats at the multiplex.

"People put blankets on top of their SUVs and let their kids sit up there and enjoy the show," said Mike Munter, Baysox General Manager.

DERRILL HOLLY (AP)

WHO KNEW? The first drive-in movie theater in the country opened in Camden, N.J., in 1933. And by 1958, there were 4,063 screens operating throughout the United States. (AP)

NAACP Appeals To Pope for Help With Catholic U.

WASHINGTON | The NAACP is turning to a higher power to get a student chapter of the organization on the campus of Catholic University.

NAACP President Kweisi Mfume says the organization has not appealed to the Washington Archdiocese to make the school allow an on-campus branch of the civil rights organization.

But Mfume does say that he's sending a letter to the Pope asking for his intervention on the organization's behalf. Mfume says he expects the Pope to intervene since Catholic University is a Vatican-designated school.

Catholic University has refused to allow a student chapter of the NAACP to form claiming the chapter would be a duplicate of other campus African-American student organizations and because of the NAACP's pro-choice stance on abortions. (AP)

Sex Offender Again Due in Va. Court

ARLINGTON, VA. | Convicted sex offender Thomas Koucky is due in court again Tuesday morning.

He was free on $3,000 bond when he skipped town to Guatemala last week.

Koucky is the convicted

Maryland sex offender who had been living in Arlington when he was charged with abusing a 17-year-old boy. Police found out he left the country when he missed a court date last week, but Koucky was caught and returned to Arlington. (AP)

Boy, 11, Dies, 2 Children Injured in ATV Accident

BOONSBORO, MD. | An 11-year-old boy was killed and two companions were injured, one critically, when their all-terrain vehicles collided in a field, police say.

Zachary Beard, the boy who died in the crash, liked computers and baseball — "but there was one thing he loved more, and that was his four-wheeler," family friend Darlene Miller said Sunday.

Cpl. Todd Kerns of the Washington County Sheriff's Office said Monday there were no developments in the department's investigation of the incident.

Beard was driving one of the ATVs when it collided head-on with one carrying the other two children on Saturday afternoon, the sheriff's office said. All were wearing helmets, police said.

The other victims were flown to separate hospitals in the Baltimore-Washington area, police said. One of them, Tyler Hollis, 8, of Boonsboro, was in good condition at Johns Hopkins Children's Center in Baltimore. The other, who police did not identify, was in critical condition as of Sunday, Kerns said.

Maryland has no age restrictions for operating ATVs. Helmets are not required. (AP)

SALLY SQUIRES' column appears Tuesdays in The Washington Post. She chats every Tuesday at 1 p.m. on washingtonpost.com/liveonline.

What foods can help boost the immune system?

Yogurt and kefir have active cultures of healthy bacteria. Soy, especially tofu, helps healthy bacteria to flourish, and fermented cheese, such as blue cheese can be beneficial. Tea has plenty of antioxidants.

I usually feel hungry very soon after I eat, even if I've stuffed myself silly. I'm a vegan so I eat healthily (most of the time) and try to consume enough fiber to feel full. I know you're not necessarily supposed to feel completely satiated, but do you have any answers on why this is happening?

I wonder if, when you're feeling hungry right after eating, you're actually having a little bit of gas. You might also try starting your meal with something soothing but filling, such as a cup of miso soup. It will only add a few calories. See if that helps.

How accurate are those MedGem/BodyGem devices that you breathe into that calculate your basal metabolism rate?

They're supposed to be pretty accurate. You can find more about them at www.healthetech.com, the Web site of the company that makes them. They aren't quite as good as some of the really fancy machines that are used for research, but they'll certainly do the job. Having said that — and I've also been tempted to get mine done from time to time — experts have also told me that if you just aim for around 1,400 to 1,600 calories per day (a couple hundred higher per day for men), most people will lose weight, and you can save the $100 for the test.

Skip the Cracker Barrel

TRAVEL | If you're road-tripping this summer, chances are you'll end up at one of those nondescript highway rest stops that serve juicy burgers, greasy fries and syrupy soft drinks. But the way food gurus Nikki and David Goldbeck see it, travel is no excuse for eating badly.

For years, they scoured the Yellow Pages for vegetarian-friendly restaurants, and even kept a folder of old newspaper clippings of restaurant reviews in their car.

The Goldbecks recently compiled their favorite eateries, along with other listings discovered through their own research or recommended by other health-conscious travelers, into a new book aimed at giving travelers a nutritious alternative.

"Healthy Highways: The Traveler's Guide to Healthy Eating" lists about 2,000 health-oriented restaurants and natural food stores in the 50 states — all easily accessible from the exit ramp of a highway or major road. The listings range from health food chains to independent owners, from organic style to fresh home-cooking, from juice bars to sit-down restaurants. All listings are vegetarian-friendly, but not entirely meat-free.

The Goldbecks admit the book is not all-inclusive and revisions and additions of new listings are made on a Web site dedicated to the book. They choose the eateries through their experience and also by mailing out 4,000 questionnaires to restaurants and natural food stores. The list was pared down after they studied menus and made follow-up contact.

According to Nikki Goldbeck, there are other perks to straying from rest-stop food. "Aside from getting better food, part of traveling is to get the community experience. You get to meet local people and experience what the neighborhood is like." ALICIA CHANG (AP)

Browser War Woes

WEB SURFING Last week was a bad one for users of Microsoft Corp.'s Internet Explorer browser.

A pair of virus attacks exploiting its vulnerabilities led security experts to recommend that Web surfers consider such alternatives as Mozilla and Opera.

Continuing to use Internet Explorer was "like playing the lottery," said Johannes B. Ullrich, chief technology officer of the nonprofit SANS Internet Security Center.

Though Microsoft issued an update that patched the security holes, many users don't care enough or know how to find other browsers, most of which are free or ad-supported. Opera Software ASA, which offers the No. 3 browser for Windows, saw no significant change in downloads last week. Downloads of Mozilla doubled, but the increase was not nearly enough to significantly change its market share.

"It's not that consumers are so loyal to Microsoft, but more they are apathetic," said Geoff Johnston, an analyst with WebSideStory, which tracks browser usage.

Users who install alternatives will find that some Web sites simply won't work. Many sites work on alternative browsers but display items incorrectly, often because developers fail to test on them.

But sites have gotten better about designing for other browsers, said Porter Glendinning, an Internet consultant who promotes adherence to Web standards. Until recently, he said, banking applications rarely worked on anything else.

And leading Web application developers, including Opera, Apple Computer Inc. and Macromedia Inc., are collaborating on better plug-in technology to rival Microsoft's.

But alternatives can become targets, too, said Chris Kraft, senior security analyst at Sophos Inc.

A better solution is to reconsider whether browsers ought to have evolved into Swiss Army knives of the Internet — a development that can, and has, backfired on users.

These Web browsers have advanced over time to be extremely rich in terms of content, how they deliver content," Kraft said. "What's the compromise between a rich experience and creating a toolbox for the general malicious community?"

MUSIC A modest bit of musical history was made at Hoboken, N.J., indie-rock club Maxwell's last week. A show by hillbilly rockers Southern Culture on the Skids marked the official debut of a technology that let fans digitally download the concert they just heard onto a lighter-sized 128 MB "pen drive."

The music, in the MP3 format, can then be transferred to computers or portable music players. A download from the wall-mounted digital music kiosk at Maxwell's costs $10. EMusic Live, which has been testing the kiosk for about a month, sells the drive for $20. (AP)

Coach K Stays in School

Krzyzewski won't leave Duke to lead the Lakers

BASKETBALL | Mike Krzyzewski is staying at Duke University, ending talks with the Los Angeles Lakers about becoming their coach.

"Your heart has to be in whatever you lead," Krzyzewski said Monday. "It became apparent that this decision was somewhat easier to make because you have to follow your heart and lead with it and Duke has always taken up my whole heart."

Krzyzewski, who has won three national college titles at Duke, said the timing of the Lakers' offer and their prominence as one of professional sports' most famous franchises made the chance to coach them tempting. But he never got to the point of being ready to leave.

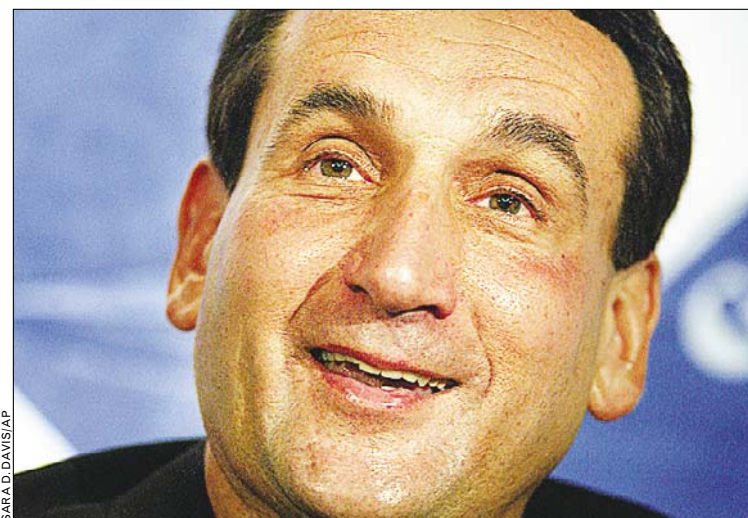

Krzyzewski said Lakers general manager Mitch Kupchak first made his interest in hiring Krzyzewski clear during conversations the two had around the time of the NBA draft. Kupchak met with Krzyzewski in North Carolina last Thursday to discuss the job.

Even Lakers star Kobe Bryant was reportedly involved in trying to persuade Coach K to take the job.

The Lakers had no immediate comment Monday on the decision by Krzyzewski, who signed a lifetime contract with Duke three years ago.

L.A. has been searching for a new coach since June 18, when coach Phil Jackson stepped down three days after an NBA Finals loss to Detroit. AARON BEARD (AP)

In Brief

Nowak to Coach All-Stars

D.C. United's Peter Nowak and the Los Angeles Galaxy's Sigi Schmid were selected Monday as coaches for the MLS All-Star game. Schmid's Galaxy team has the league's best record at 8-5-3 (27 points). Nowak, in his first season at D.C. United, has guided his team to a 5-5-5 record (20 points) and first place in the Eastern Conference. The ninth-annual MLS All-Star game is July 31 at RFK Stadium. (AP)

PRO BASKETBALL

Bobcats Leave Okafor Off Summer League Team

The Charlotte Bobcats have selected their summer league team, and top draft pick Emeka Okafor isn't on it. Okafor, the No. 2 overall pick in the NBA draft, has gone to Los Angeles to work with a personal trainer in preparation for Olympics. The Bobcats are concerned that Okafor will be tired from too much summer basketball when the NBA season begins. So they've limited what he'll do in Charlotte. (AP)

APPRECIATION

Griffey Rewards Fan, Again

The fan who returned Ken Griffey Jr.'s 500th home run ball got another big thank you Monday. Griffey showered Mark Crummley of Mount Carmel, Ill., with gifts after he returned the historic ball June 20, including an autographed game-used jersey. On Monday, Griffey gave Crummley four expenses-paid trips to Houston for the All-Star Game. (AP)

Tim Raines Jr.'s catch got the Orioles out of a bases-loaded jam in the second inning.

Orioles Sting Devil Rays

BASEBALL | During a season in which they have been tormented by poor pitching and a glaring lack of clutch hitting, the Baltimore Orioles eliminated those deficiencies Monday.

The result was an uplifting 4-2 victory over the Tampa Bay Devil Rays in the opener of a day-night doubleheader.

Daniel Cabrera and two relievers limited Tampa Bay to four hits, and the Orioles broke a seventh-inning deadlock with successive two-out RBI doubles by Luis Matos and Tim Raines Jr.

Javy Lopez had two hits and scored twice for the Orioles, who improved to 3-2 in July after they went 8-19 in June.

Miguel Tejada went 0-for-4, ending his 19-game hitting streak.

B.J. Ryan (3-2) retired all four batters he faced and Jorge Julio worked the ninth for his 12th save. His only two blown saves were against Tampa Bay. DAVID GINSBURG (AP)

Armstrong in 4th Place, Entering Risky Stages

5-time champion says cobblestones could be his undoing at Tour

CYCLING | Lance Armstrong has no doubts about the risks that lurk in the next stage of the Tour de France: If luck goes against him, he says, his drive for a record sixth straight win could be over almost before it's begun.

One of the obstacles for the five-time champion will be bone-shaking cobblestone paths that some riders say shouldn't even be part of cycling's showcase race.

The paths are bumpy, unsettling and treacherous when wet — in short, a recipe for crashes.

Armstrong is fourth overall, 18 seconds behind overall leader Thor Hushovd. He finished 85th in Monday's 122-mile second stage from Charleroi to Namur in Belgium.

The two cobblestone sections Tuesday come in the second half of the mostly flat 130-mile stage from Waterloo to the northern French town of Wasquehal.

They are fueling worries after two nervous days of crashes and high-speed sprints.

"Some people's Tour will be finished," Armstrong said. "I could be one of those people, and I'm not dumb enough to think that I couldn't be." JOHN LEICESTER (AP)

Mora on 15-Day DL

BASEBALL | Melvin Mora was placed on the 15-day disabled list Monday by the Baltimore Orioles, who figured the third baseman needed at least two weeks to recover from a hamstring injury.

Mora missed time last month with a sprained ligament in his left foot, then returned to play in three games before straining his right hamstring running out a ground-er Friday night in Philadelphia.

Mora started the day ranked second in the AL with a .347 batting average. He was also third in the league with 60 runs and third with a .433 on-base percentage.

His absence was easier for the Orioles to tolerate because of the fine play of David Newhan, who was hitting .417 and playing solid third base since joining Baltimore on June 18.

Putting Mora on the DL freed a spot on the 25-man roster for pitcher Dave Borkowski. (AP)

Bigmouth TV

Reality meddles with round-table news shows

PRANKS | Pity Corey Williams. The actor is on a contentious talk show, sparring with a guy who practices for reality TV by eating cow patties, another who's begging to get on air and a professor who thinks The Next Big Show is a "real-life Hogan's Heroes" set in a concentration camp run by neo-Nazis.

But while Williams believes he's debating real people, he's ostensibly been ensnared in an elaborate web of deceit and in-your-face rhetoric.

In the genre-bending and often hilarious "Crossballs," which premieres tonight for an eight-week run on Comedy Central, the real is the fake, the fake is the real.

Its talk-show format says it pits real guests recruited to debate real issues against improv actors portraying guests with audacious, often obnoxious opinions. The shows end without the con being revealed to the dupes, and a little nagging doubt remains — even for viewers.

Consider the episode on whether reality TV is a pursuit worthy of humanity. On one side you have Williams, the actor, brought on to defend his craft, and Stacy Vatanapan, who has worked on the production end of reality television.

"How much talent does it take to hang upside-down with a cow patty in your mouth?" Williams snaps.

Matt Besser, the executive producer and one of the show's creators, steals the show as "Matthew Henson: Reality TV Bugeater," as his character is identified. His entirely un-PC characters exhibit a regular-guy tendentiousness that is exactly the Red America stereotype so feared by those on the coasts.

(One of the show's funniest aspects is the superimposed text, such as, "Knowing in advance: Ruins surprise?" and the classic "Bilingual drivers: Dangerous or peligroso?")

Host Chris Tallman acts as the linchpin, moderating between his fake guests and the real ones and making sure no one can elaborate too much on an idea.

When it's over, though, you're left wondering: Are the "actual people" legit? Or are they just another layer in the fabric of fakery? Contained in the nonsense of comedy is the absurdity of the "reality" that we're dealing with daily on television.

In the end, the improv actors and the real people collaborate to serve two major purposes: keep the arguments going and keep people interrupting each other, no matter the premise. And these days, how is that so different from real life, anyway? TED ANTHONY (AP)

Heartache and Groceries

Joe Nichols's latest is a sweet-and-sour country 'Revelation'

MUSIC | As with his first album, "Man with a Memory," Joe Nichols's "Revelation" (Universal South) is dominated by ballads, which suit the country heartthrob's style and rich baritone. He does have a rollicking good time with the two upbeat tunes, though.

In "What's a Guy Gotta Do," lamenting the difficulty of landing a date, he sings, "Had an old man tell me, 'Boy, if you were smart/You'd hit the produce aisle at the Super Wal-Mart/So I bumped into a pretty girl's shoppin' cart/But all I did was break her eggs and bruise her artichoke hearts."

Contrast that with "Singer in a Band," which compares what he does for a child recovering from cancer, a single mother working overtime or a soldier in a mine-field.

The first single from the album, "If Nobody Believed in You," already in Billboard's top 25 country songs, reflects on the anguish of a young baseball player who's berated by his father and the old man whose son takes away his car keys.

Joe Nichols keeps it slow and steady.

"Farewell Party," a remake of the Gene Watson hit, is just pure old-time country — weepy fiddle, whining pedal steel and all.

Nichols's first album, also rich in story songs, went gold and produced four hits, including the No. 1 country tune "Brokenheartsville."

If anything, "Revelation" is better — possibly because Nichols's initial success gave him access to better material on his sophomore outing, or perhaps reflecting even more confidence in making his selections. TOM GARDNER (AP)

Big Brother: Jimmie's Turn

3 It's not like Jimmie Vaughan had much of a choice but to become a blisteringly good blues guitar player; that career seems to have been encoded into the Vaughan genes. Stevie Ray's big brother shows his chops in a show with Lou Ann Barton.

Busting Crime & Records

BOX OFFICE | "Spider-Man 2" pulled in a record $180 million in its first six days and obliterated other box-office highs over the long Fourth of July weekend.

The "Spider-Man 2" haul was well above the previous best six-day opening of $146.7 million set last year by "The Matrix Reloaded."

"I think our hope was to go into the heart of the summer and grab the biggest six days possible. That's pretty much what happened," Jeff Blake, vice chairman for "Spider-Man 2" distributor Sony, said Monday.

"Spider-Man 2" took in $115.8 million from Friday to Monday, according to Sony estimates. That put it far ahead of the previous best four-day holiday gross of $95.6 million set by "Shrek 2" over Memorial Day weekend this year.

With $152.6 million in its first five days, "Spider-Man 2" also shattered the $129 million record of "Shrek 2" for biggest Wednesday-Sunday debut.

From Friday to Sunday, "Spider-Man 2" took in $88.3 million, missing out on the best three-day weekend record of $114.8 million held by the first "Spider-Man."

"Spider-Man 2"'s most amazing feat? Raking in a record $180 million last week.

The first movie opened on Friday, so its initial business all came on the weekend, while the sequel already had rung up about $64 million in ticket sales Wednesday and Thursday.

"Spider-Man 2" also had a comparatively quiet Sunday on the Fourth of July, when many people focused on outdoor activities such as parades, picnics and fireworks.

CBS Could Face Fine For Jackson

FINES AND PUNISHMENT | CBS television network could face a fine of $550,000 for airing Janet Jackson and Justin Timberlake's breast-baring performance during the Super Bowl, a source said Wednesday.

The source, who spoke on condition of anonymity, said a staff recommendation to the Federal Communications Commission suggests each of the 20 CBS-owned stations be fined the maximum indecency penalty of $27,500 for the incident.

The staff did not recommend fining CBS affiliates that aired the show but are not owned by Viacom Inc., the parent company of CBS.

The commissioners now must decide whether to accept the recommendation. A decision is expected in the next few weeks.

There is no government definition of indecency. Federal law bars radio stations and over-the-air television channels from airing references to sexual and excretory functions between 6 a.m. and 10 p.m. When a complaint is made, the FCC determines whether the incident was indecent.

Last week, the Senate voted overwhelmingly to increase the top fine to $275,000 per indecent incident with a limit of $3 million a day. The House passed a bill earlier that would set fines at $500,000. Differences between the two bills must be worked out. JENNIFER C.

The demure and modest “Big Brother” cast preps for life in the summer house.

CAGED LUKEWARMNESS

The summer reality season begins with BIG BROTHER's 90-minute season premiere (8 p.m., CBS). There's little to say about the show since the network just released the names of the incarcerated contestants last week. Expect another round of sleazy, manipulative behavior from guests and cringe-inducing "reporting" from host Julie Chen.

RUNNING WITH THE WOLVES

AMAZING RACE (9:30 p.m., CBS) Alison, the raspy-voiced, deceitful wretch from last season's "Brother" shows up on this summer's "Amazing Race" along with her long-suffering boyfriend Donny. They describe themselves as "the greatest example of new-age young adults ... We don't accept not getting our way." Other "Race" contestants of note include Brandon and Nicole; he's a model and she's the reigning Miss Texas, and they both want to pursue acting (while keeping their lives "God-centered").

Nicole isn't the only racer with a tiara in her closet. Christie Woods (of Colin and Christie) was Miss Teen USA in 1996. Jim's 53, but he still treats his daughter Marsha, 26, like an infant. Marshall and Lance are New York brothers who run a pizza shop in Dallas. Kami and Karli look and act like insufferable sorority sisters, and they're twins to boot.

No "Race" would be complete with-

MUSICALS
Popular in Germany, Hasselhoff to Deafen U.K.

DAVID HASSELHOFF is to appear in the London stage production of "Chicago," promoters announced Monday. The 51-year-old will play scheming lawyer Billy Flynn for the next 60 performances, beginning July 16. "This is not about making money — this is about following my heart, challenging myself and having fun," Hasselhoff said. "Billy will be like every attorney I've ever known — charming until he delivers the bill." (AP)

WEDDINGS
Someone Finally Marries Tori Spelling

TORI SPELLING, 31, got married in Malibu Saturday to actor-writer Charlie Shanian, 34. It is the first marriage for both. Last week, Spelling told USA Today the wedding was going to have "a Great Gatsby kind of feel." Donna-like, she said she knew Shanian was "the one" because "he waited for me." Not all of the "90210" cast was invited to the wedding: Shannen Doherty, Gabrielle Carteris and Luke Perry were notably absent from the guest list. (EXPRESS)

A Vision In White Lamé

The REV. AL SHARPTON, known to intimates simply as "Rev," was one of the blindingly white-clad luminaries at Sean "P. Diddy" Combs's annual "White Party," held this year on Independence Day at the PlayStation 2 Estate in Bridgehampton, N.Y. To commemorate the significance of the date, Combs stressed the importance of voting in this year's election. Ex-Democratic presidential contender Sharpton has endorsed Sen. John Kerry for president. REUNIONS
Prince Reunites With Band, Ruffled Velvet Pantsuits

To mark the 20th anniversary of "Purple Rain," PRINCE reunited with former bandmates and proteges, including Sheila E, at Friday's Essence Music Festival show in New Orleans. The five-hour party was attended by 50,000 people, the largest crowd for a concert in the festival's 10-year history. Surprise guests included Chaka Khan, who joined Prince to sing "I Feel For You," and old-school rapper Doug E. Fresh. (AP)

CHANGE OF ADDRESS
He Always Was Unhealthily Obsessed With Ferris

JEFFREY JONES, best known for playing the high school principal in "Ferris Bueller's Day Off," is accused of failing to register as a sex offender in Sarasota, Fla. Jones, 57, pleaded no contest last July to a felony charge of employing a 14-year-old boy to pose for sexually explicit photos. He was ordered to register as a sex offender and undergo counseling. Officials said Jones registered the address he was at last year but moved in March. Sex offenders must notify authorities within 48 hours of a move. (AP)

BARGAINS
Crosby, Pleas and Cash

DAVID CROSBY, 62, pleaded guilty to attempted criminal possession of a weapon in the third degree in Manhattan's Supreme Court Friday. The plea accompanied a $5,000 fine — part of a bargain that ensures that the singer does not serve any prison time for his arrest on guns and drug charges filed last March after the singer was caught with marijuana and a gun. The bargain is contingent upon Crosby's good behavior; if he is caught with weapons or drugs again, officials cautioned, he will certainly face jail time. (EXPRESS)

Letters

TO THE EDITOR

I AGREE WITH letter writer Brad Dancer (June 30): Please stop calling Michael Moore's work documentaries. Documentaries are based on fact. If "Fahrenheit 9/11" and "Bowling for Columbine" are documentaries, then "Reefer Madness" documents the true evils of marijuana. Perhaps a better title for Moore's collection of lies and conspiracy theories wrapped with innuendo would be "Liberal Madness" or "Frothing Hate 9/11," because only those who already subscribe to Moore's unreasoning hatred for President Bush are going to see it.

—JOE SCHMIDT
Charles Town, W.Va.

LETTER WRITER Edward Abramic (July 1) says the government should ban all kinds of phones behind the wheel. Talking on the phone is a distraction, but it should be the driver's responsibility to ensure that he or she doesn't engage in such activity while driving. We should not let the government decide every smallest thing. Next thing we know, the government will start banning eating, drinking and talking to fellow passengers and even listening to music. Aren't they distracting as well?

Horoscope | Stella Wilder

CANCER (June 21-July 22) — Remain open-minded at all times and look for opportunities that others may overlook. Take the time to formulate plans in detail.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) — There is more to respecting your elders than good manners; you must be willing to listen and to take what is offered. Potential is increased.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) — You may finally have a way to deal with someone who has always been able to distract you and hold you back. You'll be on the right track.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) — You must be willing to get down to business and get some work done. Resist the urge to stray from your assigned duties.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) — You will not be able to progress through the day risk-free. Indeed, certain developments may present unusual personal dangers.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) — A late start will make it imperative that you use your time efficiently. Moments that slip away cannot be regained; use them well.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) — Concentrate on issues of financial security and planning. You may be able to combine your own ideals with everyday requirements.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) — Trust your instincts and a key personal matter will be illuminated. Things are not always what they seem to be at first glance.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) — You can combine style with performance to achieve something that may be remembered for some time.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) — You may come perilously close to overdoing it. Take care you don't lose sight of your own primary goals. Streamline your efforts.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) — Cash flow will be a concern — but you have what it takes to come up with one or two imaginative solutions to stubborn problems.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) — Don't wait too long before making that important decision. Others are waiting on you and will be supportive and enthusiastic.

LIVE ONLINE

Brando's Life

From washingtonpost.com/liveonline

Washington Post staff writer ADAM BERNSTEIN was online Friday to discuss the career of actor Marlon Brando.

Would it be correct to call Brando a tormented man and if so, was this one of the reasons he was such a great "method" actor?

I think it's clear from the way he was raised — or not raised — by his cruel and absent parents that Brando was tormented, conflicted — whatever you want to call it. But he also was a great prankster, and I think what made him so necessary to watch at all times was his unpredictability. He could leap from silence to rage to absurd comedy at any moment and you were never quite sure whether he meant his actions to be taken seriously or he was jesting with his emotions. I think putting him in the category of "method" is too confining for such a giant, who could pretty much do it all.

It almost seemed that Brando thought acting was a trivial exercise and that he wished he could completely devote himself to other things he felt were important. Assuming this is right, I wonder how it felt to be considered a great and revolutionary figure in a profession he didn't seem to respect very much?

I am of two opinions. I think he was scared of acting and then wound up being so good and so natural at it. It came easy, but it also terrified him (learning lines, etc.). That is why he did not pursue other stage opportunities after making his mark in "Streetcar" on Broadway. He once said the money was so good in films that certain acting roles became ... offers he could not refuse.

Brando was such a unique talent. Are there any up-and-coming actors that you think have his kind of presence and breadth of talent?

The only guy who comes close, for my money, is Russell Crowe, who can go from "The Insider" to "L.A. Confidential" to "Gladiator" with equal ease. All different kinds of films, and you can't take your eyes off him — the same qualities as Brando.

Pizza Pockets

Serves: 4

5 Ingredients:

- 1/2 lb. ground beef
- 1/2 cup pizza sauce
- 1/2 cup diced "topping" of your choice (mushrooms, green pepper, onion, olives)
- 1 tube (13.8 ounces) refrigerated pizza dough
- 1/2 cup part-skim mozzarella cheese, shredded

30 Minutes:

Preheat oven to 450° F. Brown ground beef in large skillet, breaking up into small pieces with spoon. Drain. Add pizza sauce and topping of your choice. Simmer to heat through. Meanwhile, sprinkle flour on a 14" x 17" cookie sheet and spread pizza dough out on top using a floured rolling pin to cover entire sheet. Cut into 12 rectangles. Add cheese to ground beef mixture and stir to mix. Spoon 1 Tbsp. filling on one side of each rectangle, leaving a small border of dough uncovered. Fold dough over to make pocket. Using a fork, press the sides together. Bake for 10 minutes or until lightly browned.
